- Statement from the Chief Public Health Officer of Canada [10-12-2020]
  - “Today, I invite everyone to give thanks to our public health and health workforce, including long-term care home staff, for their herculean efforts in helping manage the pandemic. Their work has never been more challenging and I know we are all grateful for their ongoing dedication to reduce the spread of infection, care for those who fall ill and keep our communities safe.”

- Statement from the Chief Public Health Officer of Canada [10-11-2020]
  - The steep rise in cases over the last week is troubling. It also coincides with Thanksgiving planning for many Canadians, which is very different this year. The table will be smaller, and we will be missing those who are not in attendance. What is usually a special tradition for many Canadians, will serve as a hard reminder of how much we are sacrificing to protect ourselves, those we love and our communities.

  o In other words, herd immunity is achieved by protecting people from a virus, not by exposing them to it. Never in the history of public health has herd immunity been used as a strategy for responding to an outbreak, let alone a pandemic. It is scientifically and ethically problematic.
• WHO Director-General’s opening remarks at the media briefing on COVID-19 [10-09-2020]
  o The COVID-19 pandemic has also taken a heavy toll on the mental health of millions of people, and highlighted the urgency of increasing investment in this neglected area of health. Tomorrow is World Mental Health Day. Close to 1 billion people are living with a mental disorder, and one person dies every 40 seconds by suicide. Yet relatively few people globally have access to quality mental health services.
